A Saint Bernard is a large dog. It drools a lot and eats a lot of dog food every day. It sheds a lot of hair. It looks vicious. A Cockapoo is a small dog. It doesn't drool often. It eats very little and it doesn't shed a lot of hair. It looks cute. But both of them are friendly and smart. They both protect their owners and are loyal dogs.

Transportation

If you take the MTR from Tsim Sha Tsui to Central, it takes 12 minutes to get there. But if you take the ferry from Tsim Sha Tsui to Central, it only takes about 5 minutes. If you take the MTR, you can go to many different places. The ferry is different. It can only go to a few places. You can see the beautiful scenery on the ferries and the ferries also take people to many beautiful scenic spots. They are also very convenient and fast, and can quickly reach the destination. This can save more time.

Transportation

I'm going to describe taxis and buses. A taxi is small. It can only carry five passengers at a time but a bus is big. It can carry more than fifty passengers. Also bus fare is cheaper than taxi fare but a taxi is faster than a bus. Both are transportation. Both can pick up passengers from one place to their destination. Also, they need drivers to make them move.

About me

I am Li Chun Yin. I am eleven years old. I study in Ming Tao Primary School. I live in Hong Kong. I am good at Computer Studies. I like to study Maths and do sports because I think Maths is important. But I am weak in Chinese. I am a polite boy but I am shy. My mum always tell me not to be shy.

Transportation

Taxi and buses are both wonderful transportation for everyone. They both need gas to move. They can help you get to your destination. They both accept cash as payment. But these two kinds of transportation are different from each other. They are different in terms of their capacity and size, their fare, their drop off point, and so on.

Buses are large and have many seats. On the contrary, taxis are small and have fewer seats. Taxis are expensive, whereas buses are cheap.

Taxis can take you from point to point, but buses will drop you off at a bus stop. In conclusion, buses and taxis are very popular in Hong Kong. They both need gas, help you get to your destination and accept cash. However, a taxi is small, expensive, flexible and has fewer seats. A bus is large, cheap, not flexible and has many seats.

The MTR and Taxi

They are alike. They can move people, and you need to pay fare . Taxis can carry just 4 to 5 people, but the MTR can carry many people to different places. Taxi cost more money, but MTR doesn't. The MTR can get more people to a place faster than the taxi. The MTR is bigger than a taxi.

Therefore, I help her with the housework at home, take good care of my brother, and make my mother less burdensome.

Although my mom's appearance is ordinary, she is very hand-working. In my opinion, Mom is the most beautiful. I admire my mom from the bottom of my heart. She insists on taking care of us for more than ten years.

Transportation

There are many different ways to get from one place to another. Today, I have chosen motorcycles and bicycles to explain their similarities and differences.

They have three similarities. First, their shapes are smaller than other vehicles. Secondly, they both only have two tires. Thirdly, they all have handles. They also have many differences. First of all, motorcycles are heavy but bicycles are portable. Second of all, motorcycles are fast but bicycles are slow.

Third, when riding a motorcycle, you can't enjoy the scenery because the speed is too fast. When going cycling, you can enjoy the scenery on the road. but it will be very laborious. To sum up, motorcycles and bicycles each have their own benefits.

Trains have a lot of compartments. They are like a snake or a bug. I often go to different places by train. A bus is a car that has two levels. It can carry many passengers. It has free Wi-Fi. A taxi has three colours e.g., red, green and blue. You can see the red one in Kowloon, the green one in the New Territories and the blue one on Lantau Island. It goes very fast.

Transportation

There is so much transportation in this world, so I am going to introduce two kinds of transportation to you, bus and taxi. A bus and taxi both can be so fast, but a taxi is faster than a bus. Also, they have different routes to choose from. You can go everywhere you want. They are the most universal transportation too!

A bus is so cheap and it can carry many people. But a taxi is expensive and it can at most carry five people. Although a taxi is expensive, so many people still use it because it is faster and more comfortable than a bus. So, when people go home late, most of them will choose a taxi to go back.

Do you know more about buses and taxis now? Well, if you want to know more about it, I'm happy to tell you.
